George Young served 29 years of service as a member of the Public Safety department for Kalamazoo, MI. During his tenure within Public Safety, George was selected to work with its Crime Prevention unit and became a Neighborhood Liaison Officer (NLO). Working closely the local citizens, he admitted his most valuable lesson was realizing the greatest commodity of any community are the residents who live and work there.

Learning about NAM in the 90s, George eagerly became a member and has been heavily involved since that time. Endlessly advocating the organization's mission to assist and provide resources to Michigan's growing neighborhood associations, George is extremely proud to be a serving board member.

George Young is a father of five and currently lives in Kentwood, MI.
